BASEBALL MAN

ARRESTED IN JACKSON

Charged With Failure to Support Child.

The Woman in the Case.

A tale of domestic trouble and elopement was brought to light by the arrest of Fred Kraft, a prominent baseball player belonging to the Jackson team. Kraft is but a new comer here. He arrived from Stockton, where his relatives lived, and where his home had been prior to his advent into Amador county, early in July, before the celebration. He secured work at the Argonaut mine, in handling the logs. He proved a good worker, steady and attentive to business. He was also a good baseballist, taking the position of catcher, and looked upon as a valuable acquisition to the home team. On Sunday, July 25, a young girl arrived here, and the pair took apartments at Mrs Parker's on Main street, boarding at the National hotel. Of course, it was assumed that they were man and wife. There was no attempt on part of Kraft to conceal his identity, by assuming another name. He was Fred Kraft in Stockton, and the same here. Sunday Kraft played in the game at the Zeila park between Jackson and Folsom teams. That evening he was taken into custody by sheriff Gregory on a message from Stockton, on a charge of failure to support his minor child, the Stockton court having made an order that he pay his divorced wife $10 per month for the child's support. It is alleged that he neglected to furnish the money. The deputy sheriff, H. C. Strucke, came up from Stockton Monday, and Tuesday morning departed with his prisoner to the slough city. The girl in the case also left by the same stage. No charge is preferred against her, as she is of age.

As the story is told, Kraft's wife secured a divorce from him a short time back also, an order of court requiring the defendant to pay $10 per month for the support of the minor child. Kraft claims that he has paid the $10 every month, and can show receipts for the same. He has not paid for July, as the month is not up until the 17th. Besides, he had not received his pay at the Argonaut, as the mine pays off on the 13th of each month, so that he could not be in the position of deliberately disobeying the order of court. Before leaving Stockton for Jackson he furnished bonds for the payment of the sum ordered by the court; the bondsmen were his relatives and responsible parties. It is said that the motive behind the complaint is not so much to punish Kraft for failure to provide, as to secure the return of the girl in the case to her home.

The girl with whom Kraft had been living is said to be Dora Armstead, of prepossessing appearance, 18 years of age. She came here on Sunday, July 25, nearly a month after Kraft reached here. She was employed as clerk in the Stockton bag factory. Before leaving she mailed a note, to her mother, with special delivery stamp, which read as follows:

"Dear Ma.—Goodby; I'm going to San Francisco. Dora."

The design of this was evidently to mislead the mother as to her destination. The mother reported to the police department to search for the truant daughter, but without result. The Stockton ball team played with Jackson at the fourth July celebration. Kraft was well known to them. The general opinion is that when the girl left her home, the fact soon leaked out that Kraft, with whom she seems to be infatuated, was in Jackson, and it was assumed that she was with him. Kraft under the charge can be prosecuted for either misdemeanor or felony. The last legislature changed the law in this respect, so that failure to support a minor child is punishable by imprisonment in state prison or county jail. The girl was given an order to draw the money that was due Kraft from the Argonaut Company, and was seen to give him money just before getting on the stage Tuesday morning, while waiting on the National hotel porch.

Kraft was promptly discharged by the court, upon producing the receipts showing that he had made the payments for the support of his child. Both Kraft and the girl Dora returned to Jackson Wednesday evening. They were notified by the officers that if they attempted to live as before, they would be arrested. The woman left by stage the next morning.

Thrown into a Barbed Wire Fence

Chas Devore, the well-known business man of Plymouth, was the victim of a singular, but very serious accident last Saturday night. He was driving with W. Speakman from Plymouth to Drytown to attend a dance in the latter town. It was after nine o'clock. At some point on the road the horse stumbled at the limo of a tree that had fallen across the roadway, resulting in Devore being thrown from his buggy, and landed in the midst of a barbed wire fence, with such force as to cut a long gash, or series of cuts, from his mouth clear to the crown of his head. A doctor was called to repair the damage, and it required nineteen stitches to close up the gaps created in the man's anatomy by his sudden and unlooked-for encounter with the barbed wire fence. It was anything but the pleasure trip that he anticipated when he set forth on his journey.

No Contract Let.

The people of Plymouth were very much irritated by the failure to receive the mail from the outside last Sunday. That day was the 1st of August, and the new line from Martell to Plymouth was to have started on that date. The postal department had notified the old mail contractor between Carbondale and Plymouth that that route would be discontinued, being displaced by the new arrangement. Also, the Amador Central railroad was notified of a certain increase of the contract price, about double we believe if that company would extend the services from Amador City through to Plymouth. Their old contract called for Martell to Amador City, only believing that the offer would be accepted, the cancellation of the old route was made. But the Amador Central was not anxious to extend the service; but the other mail line was dropped in accordance with instructions from Washington. So Plymouth and Drytown were out in the cold. Messages were sent to Washington to inform the authorities of the situation, and instructions were sent back to get some one to resume on the old basis until other arrangements could be made. Things are running as heretofore again, temporarily.

Bazaar and Supper.

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist Church will have their bazaar and supper at the Odd Fellows banquet hall on Thursday Aug. 19, supper will be served at any time during the evening.

There will be many fancy and useful articles for sale, also ice cream, candy, etc. Come and have a good time. Don't forget the date Aug. 19.

A Reliable School.

Atkinson's Sacramento Business College founded 1873, after an occupancy of two stories of the City Library for fifteen years and the upper story of Hale's Block for twenty-two years, is now permanently located in its new home at Thirteenth and J. Streets. It has the best appointed Commercial School Apartments to be found in the State, especially designed and completed for its own use. Its rooms and offices are spacious and commodious, with abundance of light and ventilation.

A Faithful Friend.

"Have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy since it was first introduced to the public in 1872, and have never found one instance where a cure was not speedily effected by its use. I have been a commercial traveler for eighteen years, and never start out on a trip without this, my faithful friend," says H S Nichols of Oakland, Ind. Ier. When a man has used a remedy for thirty-five years he knows its value and is competent to speak of it. For sale by Jackson Drug Store, Spagnoli Prop.

Washington's Plague Spots.

lie in the low, marshy bottoms of the Potomac, the breeding round of malaria germs. These germs cause chills, fever and ague, biliousness, jaundice, lassitude, weakness and general debility and bring suffering or death to thousands yearly. But Electric Bitters never fail to destroy them and cure malaria troubles. "They are the best all-round tonic and cure for malaria I ever used," writes R. M. James, of Lovell, S. C. They cure Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Blood Troubles and will prevent typhoid. Try them, 50c. Guaranteed by Jackson Drug Store, Spagnoli Prop.

City Board of Equalization.

The city trustees will meet on Monday next, at 10 o'clock a. m. as a board of equalization, for the purpose of hearing applications for increase or reduction of assessment valuations. The city tax roll is almost an exact copy of the county assessment of city property. The county assessment foots up $1850 more than the city. This increase is made up as follows: Real estate outside of town lots is $1000 more; city lots $150 more, and improvements thereon $700 more.

Editorial Column.

A BRIGHT OUTLOOK IN MINING.

There never was a time when the outlook for the mining industry in Amador county looked brighter than at present. There are several things that contribute to this belief. In the first place, the output of gold for this year promises to overtop any year since the early days of gold mining. With the Kennedy, Argonaut, Bunker Hill, South Eureka and Zeila in the list of producing mines, and most of them yielding more liberally than ever, with the promise of still greater things in the future, the aggregate yield can hardly fail to prove a banner year. Another thing is the demonstrated fact that the gold-bearing rock extends to great depth, and does not diminish in richness with depth. In no other gold producing region in the United States has this been so strikingly shown as in Amador county. In the Kennedy ore of bonanza character is being taken from over 3000 feet below the surface, with the fissure vein as strong as in any of the upper workings. These are facts that appeal to capitalists and investors. It is a vital point with mining men to know that when a gold deposit is encountered, there is reason to believe it will continue to surrender its treasure for an indefinite period. There is a permanence to the output which is not a feature with many much vaunted camps.

The crowning event that should stimulate mining in this section is the development of the South Eureka into a dividend paying proposition. After nearly twenty years of search, under the direction of some of the most experienced mining men on the coast, this property now looms up as one of the most promising on the lode, surrendering values that place it side by side with the most liberal producers in the county. Naturally many of the original stockholders grew tired of the assessments which had been draining their pockets for so many years, and threw up their stock as worthless, just on the eve of striking the ore body which has put an entirely different face upon the mine. For nearly 3000 feet the search for gold was driven into the earth, without satisfactory result. Still the gold-bearing ledge was there all the same, waiting for a crosseut a few feet into the footwall to reveal its presence. It was near and yet so far. No mining ground on the mother lode, it was thought, had been so thoroughly prospected as this. Moreover, it was known as a blind ledge; that is to say there were no outcroppings on the surface to guide the prospector. The operations were predicated on the development of other near-by mines. Now the practical significance of this is that gold in paying quantities exists within the limits of nearly every mining location along the main mineral belt. True, some spots have been pretty thoroughly prospected, according to approved methods, without result. Until recently the South Eureka was in the same category. They simply had failed to reach the right spot. The logical conclusion is that it is the same with other properties that have heretofore failed to respond. The ledge is probably there, although undiscovered. Persistent prospecting on this lode has almost invariably resulted in the discovery of a mine. And the importance of this fact can hardly be overestimated in the future of the mining development of Amador county.

The effort to empanel a jury for a second trial of Calhoun is a travesty upon justice. Over a thousand talesmen have been examined without a single juror being sworn to try the issue. It is evident from the opinions expressed by those examined that the people are getting heartily sick of this seemingly lifelong prosecution. It is safe to say, if Calhoun were a poor man without influence in the community, the prosecution would have dropped the case after the first mistrial, especially in face of the jurors standing ten to two in favor of acquittal. The history of the graft cases is anything but a commendable chapter in the annals of San Francisco. A district attorney is supposed to take cognizance of public opinion so significantly expressed as in the poll of the first jury. But when prosecuting officers divide allegiance between public and private interests, they are bound to be discredited. The people will no doubt speak out in unmistakable terms on this issue at the coming city election.

What Came of a Woman's Hat.
By ESTELLE MARSH.
[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]
Tom Buxton got into a parlor car, put his belongings in the rack above him, took a newspaper out of his pocket and settled himself to endure a journey. Before opening the paper he made a hasty survey of the car. At the other end were several uninteresting looking people, in the center an old woman and a boy, but on the opposite side, slightly in advance of him, in a chair whose back was turned toward him, was something that arrested his attention. It was a feminine hat. It was to be seen above the back of the chair and indicated a woman beneath. It was the work of an artist. Its rim, nearly a yard in diameter, was topped by several splendid black ostrich feathers springing from a profusion of bands and buckles that had been thrown together in an extraordinary combination. Such hats are only to be associated with beautiful women.
The next thing for Buxton was to get a view of the owner of the hat, but as she persistently kept her face toward the window this was impossible. After a long wait for her to change her position he arose and walked toward the forward vestibule, then sauntered back. To his discomfiture, the lady had changed her position, her face being toward the opposite end of the car. As he passed her she turned again toward the window. He kept on toward the rear vestibule, went into the smoking room, came out and walked to his chair. The lady had swung around to face forward.
Buxton said something without moving his lips.
For fear of appearing obtrusive, he swung his chair around and looked out of the window. When he swung it back the lady was facing the front of the car, her head was resting on the cushion, and she held a folder time table over her face. She was apparently resting or slumbering. The shapely hand that held the folder was delicately gloved, and a bit of lace fell from the wrist. The figure was shapely and the position one of graceful repose.
"Confound it!" exclaimed Buxton mentally. "Why can't I get a glimpse of her face? If it corresponds to the rest of her she must be a Venus."
But fortune did not seem to favor him. She remained in her half reclining position under his admiring gaze for nearly an hour, while the delicious odor of a bunch of violets she wore on her bosom was continually wafted to him. Then she moved slightly. Buxton hoped. But, alas, before lowering the folder she turned her face toward the window.
Buxton said things again without moving his lips.
But the conductor is coming to punch the tickets. She will turn aside to hand him hers. He stops in the middle of the car to explain something to the old woman with the boy, and it seems half an hour before he makes her understand. Buxton grows restless with impatience. The ticket puncher comes on, and when he reaches the lady's chair she languidly extends her hand sideways without turning. Her ticket is punched, the conductor moves on, and again Buxton is disappointed.
What a singular series of coincidences that the lady should have happened for an hour and a half always to be in such position that Buxton could not see her features! "I wonder," he said, "if she isn't a very homely woman who is keeping her face away from me on purpose. But she hasn't seen me. She was sitting in that position when I came in, and her back has been toward me ever since. No; I can feel it in my very bones that she is beautiful."
He was now ready for an aggressive movement. He arose and, going to the chair next to hers, sat down. After a brief gaze out of the window he turned his eyes toward her. He was too late. She had turned her back.
Suddenly, without warning, her chair swung around, and she faced him squarely.
"Julia!"
"Tom!"
A pause.
"I've been trying to get a glimpse of your face all the morning."
"I know it. I could see you in the mirror beside the window. Why should you try to see me after all that has passed?"
"Hang the past! It's the present that interests me. I've been falling in love ever since I boarded this train."
"I trust you won't treat the lady as you treated me."
"And I trust she won't treat me as you did. But that's past. I dare say it was all my fault anyway."
"I have come to the conclusion that it was all mine. But it's too late now. The divorce proceedings are drawing to a conclusion, a great deal of money has been spent, and if we 'make up' it will all have been for nothing."
"Well, if that isn't like a"—He checked himself. He had learned wisdom. He continued, "A reconciliation under the circumstances would be unwarranted—a peculiar absurdity—if I had not made ten times the amount involved in stocks while the suit has been pending."
"In that case I suppose"—
"Suppose what?"
"That since the divorce has not been granted there would be no impropriety in our taking a"—
"Honey-moon trip? None whatever. We'll continue the journey as a newly married couple."

IMPROVE THIS OPPORTUNITY

On account of the contestants having received so many promises of votes which they would like to get in as soon as possible the management of the contest deems it advisable to make this DOUBLE OFFER ON SUBSCRIPTIONS as an inducement that is expected to fulfill every promise made. Again, this double offer will give every candidate a chance to overcome any lead that has been made so far, and is fair for one and all. So it is of the utmost importance that those who wish to secure as many votes as possible to BRING IN THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS THIS WEEK.

CONTEST MANAGER

Amador Ledger, Jackson, Cal.

Two for One this Week---the best week of the contest.

DOUBLE VOTE FOR ONE WEEK

A Chance to Secure a Big
Block of Votes in Ledger
Contest.

Owing to the repeated request of a majority of the contestants in the Ledger contest and to the fact that the big celebration of the 4th, cut into the working days of the contest, interfering with the contestants getting around to interview their friends it has been deemed advisable by the management to extend the closing of the contest one week, or until Aug. 19 at 7 P. M. This will absolutely be the date and time of closing of the Ledger contest.

As the special ballot week was such a success to the contestants of the Ledger and as there are still a number of subscriptions and promises that are out, we are going to give the candidates another chance to get them in this coming week.

From Aug. 6th to the 12th, just 6 days, there will be double votes given on all subscriptions turned into this office and it would be well to say that there will be no better offer during the contest, so do not save your subscriptions until the last week, thinking that you will receive more votes than this as there ABSOLUTELY will not be any better offer.

The double vote offer will give the candidates who have been lagging somewhat and those who entered the race late, a chance to catch up with the leaders of the different districts. Some have a good many subscriptions promised them and this will give them a chance to show that the subscriptions should be given NOW.

If any contestant this week will not only do as well as usual, but do her best, she will make it warm for every competitor in the race. Be the one to make the contest more exciting.

Full particulars of this, the best offer of the contest, appears in the add of this issue, be sure and read it.

SUBSCRIBERS

Until now possibly you have been intending to help some contestant, possibly you have been waiting for this candidates to ask you for your votes, or you may have given your promise; if so, this is the time to get them in. Do not wait until next week expecting something better in the way of vote getting, for it is POSITIVELY stated that during the remaining time of the contest, there will be no better offer made than the DOUBLE VOTES.

Help some one along now. A little encouragement may be just what is needed. If you say "no" to a candidate they may take this as a refusal on the part of every one, and stop trying for the prizes, or, on the other hand, if, with a word of encouragement you give them a few votes they start out with renewed energy and in this manner you be the means of giving to some young lady the Kimball piano. Votes are coming into the office fast and furious every week, and if you have not looked up your subscription and found out how far back you are it is time that you did so.

With a few exceptions all the contestants entered in the race for the prizes offered by this paper are doing very well, and those who are leading in the different districts are very liable to lose the place any week as some of the candidates are holding a good reserve and may decide to take first place at any time.

The leaders must not get the idea in their head that they have enough votes to win, as there are others in the race that are not worrying any if they are not in the lead, but will show up strong at the finish.

TO THE CONTESTANTS

Do you realize that you have only two short weeks until the close of the contest in which to redeem yourselves?

If your standings are not as high as you would like to have them, the time is brief and it behooves each and every candidate to get in and do her best in the matter of securing votes and subscriptions. While there yet remains time, not a contestant should get discouraged if she is not at head of list at present. She should be determined in the matter, and with that thought get right in and by good, persistent work, coupled with energetic action, canvass for votes and subscriptions, make the race well worth the prizes. The candidates who work steadily and earnestly and make a weekly gain, are the ones who will win in the end.

Make the most of every day, and make every minute count.

A Question of Color.

The enormous difficulties of color terminology are illustrated by a customer's "exact statement of her requirements" in a large Deansgate establishment one day. "Something in blue taffeta silk, please. I don't want anything as dark as navy blue nor anything as light as Cambridge blue, but something darker than Eton blue and yet a little off from an electric blue and hardly a sky blue—more like a robin's egg blue and yet not quite so light, but not an indigo blue, but something like this tint; I think they call it morning glory blue, which is something like a turquoise blue and yet not quite so light as that and yet not so dark quite as this aquamarine blue nor so light as baby blue. Now, if you have anything in the shade I have described, please show it to me." The intelligent assistant unrolled a length, a cross between the blue devils and the deep sea, with the remark: "This is the shade of blue you require, madam. It is called 'London milk'."—Dyer and Calico Printer.

The Oriental Mind.

Frederic S. Isham, the author, told the following to illustrate the double dyed duplicity of the oriental mind. Mr. Isham was in Pekin. Passing the arch to the Baron von Kettler, supposed to be an arch of contrition for the foul assassination of that brave official, the novelist asked a Chinaman who spoke a little English:

"You know why this monument was erected, I suppose?"

"Oh, yes," was the ready reply in dialect, "to commemorate a triumphal deed, the death of a very powerful foreigner!"

"Commemorate! And is that"—in amazement—"what the people generally think was the purpose of this monument?"

"Why not?" The Celestial's face was immovable, but a suggestion of sardonic humor seemed to flash from his slant eyes. "Chinese people much likee monument."

And, indeed, they seemed to bask in the shade of it with much satisfaction.

Better Not Get Dyspepsia

If you can help it. Kodol prevents Dyspepsia, by effectually helping Nature to Relieve Indigestion. But don't trifle with Indigestion.

A great many people who have trifled with indigestion, have been sorry for it—when nervous or chronic dyspepsia resulted, and they have not been able to cure it. Use Kodol and prevent having Dyspepsia.

Everyone is subject to indigestion. Stomach derangement follows stomach abuse, just as naturally and just as surely as a sound and healthy stomach results upon the taking of Kodol.

When you experience sourness of stomach, belching of gas and nauseating fluid, bloated sensation, gnawing pain in the pit of the stomach, heart burn (so-called), diarrhoea, headaches, dullness or chronic tired feeling—you need Kodol. And then the quicker you take Kodol—the better. Eat what you want, let Kodol digest it.

Ordinary pepsin "dyspepsia tablets," physics, etc., are not likely to be of much benefit to you, in digestive ailments. Pepsin is only a partial digester—and physics are not digesters at all.

Kodol is a perfect digester. If you could see Kodol digesting every particle of food, of all kinds, in the glass test-tubes in our laboratories, you would know this just as well as we do.

Nature and Kodol will always cure a sick stomach—but in order to be cured, the stomach must rest. That is what Kodol does—rests the stomach, while the stomach gets well. Just as simple as A, B, C.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today and get a dollar bottle. Then after you have used the entire contents of the bottle if you can honestly say, that it has not done you any good, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money without question or delay. We will then pay the druggist for the bottle. Don't hesitate, all druggists know that our guarantee is good. This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family. The large bottle contains 2½ times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

LOCAL NEWS

J. F. Wilson, Dentist. Hours 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Phone—Office, black 444; residence, black 394; Jackson.

Dr. J. F. Wilson and family and Mrs. Alice Patterson will leave tomorrow morning for a week's visit with the family of Mr. Wm. Blakely at Tiger creek.

Wallace Jones left last week on a vacation of a couple of weeks to the Steele ranch in Calaveras county. He managed to tree and kill a coon that was preying upon the fruit tree in the orchard, a night or two after he got there.

Lloyd H. Brubaker, a conductor on a street car in San Francisco, a few days ago shot a man in a dispute over a five cent fare. It seems the man boarded the car at South San Francisco, and had no transfer, and refused to pay his fare. He was therefore put off the car by the conductor. The man was not armed, but made an effort which the conductor construed as an attempt to draw a weapon. The conductor drew his gun and shot the man in the neck, inflicting a dangerous wound. Brubaker formerly worked in Amador county, having worked at the Anita mine, also at the Amelia mine, some twelve or thirteen years ago. In this affair the wounded man afterward acknowledged that he was entirely in the wrong, and that he had brought on the altercation which ended in his being shot.

The number of hunting licenses sold this season up to the first of the week was 685. The total for the season promises to be far in excess of the number sold last week.

Miss Loretta Meehan, deputy in the county recorder's office, is being treated at the children's hospital in San Francisco. As soon as her health is sufficiently re-established, she will go to the seaside home of Judge Lindley, to spend the summer months.

The fees collected in the office of the county recorder during the month of July amounted to $99.25.

Misses Margaret and Mary McDonald, who have been visiting the Ginocchio's for the past month, left yesterday morning to return to their home in Oakland.

Byron Burns, who has been visiting in Jackson since the fourth celebration, left yesterday morning for his home in Oakland.

Ross the tailor on the first of the month moved out of the Max Ladar shop, near the Globe hotel, and has taken the premises next to Tam's store which was conducted as an Italian restaurant until recently. The premises vacated by Ross have been rented to the Globe hotel, and will be used as a sample room.

The board of supervisors postponed the matter of the proposed purchase of Big Bar bridge. A joint meeting of the Calaveras and Amador supervisors was to have been held last Tuesday, but for some reason it was postponed.

Dornan's sale still on.

Married in Sacramento.

John S. Davis and Miss Alice E. Gartin were married at the Catholic Cathedral in Sacramento, by Rev. Father Ryan, on Wednesday evening August 4th. They started from the city the same evening for a week's stay at Lake Tahoe and other points, after which they will return to Amador county, and make their home at Amador City.

The wedding of this couple calls for more than a passing notice. It is the outcome of several years of acquaintance. Both parties are prominent. The groom is a son of J. J. Davis, of Shenandoah Valley, one of Amador county's pioneers. He is proprietor of the blacksmith shop at Amador City, where by promptness and thorough workmanship he has built up a thriving trade in his line. He was appointed a deputy sheriff, at the request of the citizens, during the recent labor trouble over the 8 hour law. By his firm stand in the enforcement of law the trouble was ended without the least disturbance.

The bride has been a teacher in the public schools of this county for many years, and one of the best instructors of the young, the county has ever had. She retired from this service last year. She has been a member of the county board of education for nine years, and is at the present time president of the board, a position which she is eminently qualified to fill by natural endowments and educational attainments.

Lewis Love, who is employed in the commissary department of the Southern Pacific Company in San Francisco, came up on a vacation and to visit his folks, accompanied by his friend R. P. Reid of the City. On Sunday morning they started for a brief stay at Kirkwood's, in Alpine county. Mrs. L. French and Miss Emma Cassinelli, and the two above named composing the party.

Mrs. H. T. Trip and three children, who have been visiting Mrs. Wallace Kay for several weeks, left Monday morning for San Francisco, en route for Juneau, Alaska, where Mr. Tripp holds a responsible position with a prominent mining company. He is at present in the east for the purpose of interesting capitalists in some likely mining properties in Alaska and will return to Juneau in September.

J. H. Morris, a prominent mining man of Placer county, was in Jackson over a week ago, for the purpose of looking over the South Extension of Kennedy, commonly known as the Muldoon mine. He spoke very highly of the mineral resources of this section.

C. L. Severy, who has been assistant at the Argonaut for some months, has accepted a flattering offer from a mining company in Chile, and will leave for that country in a short time. Jos. Phelps, who is head assayer, will take a vacation for a few days before Mr. Severy leaves, and will take a trip to Pacific Grove.

A LUDICROUS ESCAPE

Another Chapter in the Ross-Mason Affair.

The mix-up between Mason and Wm. Ross and wife gave birth to another sensation early this week, completely overshadowing in its ridiculous aspect at least, anything that has gone before. The attempted real estate deal made between Mason and Ross of lots in Stockton which was consummated to the extent of drawing the deed in favor of Mrs. Ross, and which subsequently was called off; and thereafter the discovery that the deed was missing from Mason's dwelling, and had been placed on record in Stockton, furnished a rich morsel for gossip for a time.

The man and wife were arrested on a charge of stealing the deed. Ross was released on habeas corpus, and the case against his wife was dismissed upon her redeeming the lots to Mason. Then Ross starts suit for damages against Mason for malicious prosecution.

While there is a bitterness between Ross and Mason, the latter and Mrs. Ross have continued on speaking terms. Ross says, Mason has been annoying his wife, by his presence when the tailor has been away. On the other hand, it is reported that on the occasion when the latest escapade occurred he was invited in, on a put up scheme to trap him; if so the scheme worked charmingly. Sunday afternoon about 2 o'clock Mason started to go to the ball grounds. Passing the Ross residence, so the story goes, Mrs. Ross asked him in and have his clothes cleaned. He went inside. After divesting himself of pants and drawers, the woman grabbed the garments and threw them out of the window to her husband, who was waiting outside. Ross after getting the garments went into the house, and high words passed between the two men. However Ross came to town presumably to notify the officers. He was showing the tangible proof of the escapade in the captured clothing on the trip. However, when he returned home, Mason was not there. He fled regardless of the loss of important articles of his make-up. It was but a short distance to his own dwelling, across lots.

Ross still holds the fort in the shape of having possession of the clothing. There was some money in the pockets of the pants. It has been hinted that criminal proceedings might be taken against Ross.

Ross was arrested this morning on complaint of Mason for petty larceny in stealing the money said to be in the pants pockets. He is in jail. The amount is about $22.

A Lot of Influence.

The following anecdote well illustrates the exalted position Sir Wilfrid Laurier occupies in the minds of the less educated French Canadians: Some years ago an illiterate old Canadian came into Quebec from the country, where he met a friend whom he had not seen for years. In the course of conversation the old fellow happened to mention the name of Queen Victoria and was much astonished to learn that she was dead. "Dead?" he echoed. "And who has taken her place?" When he was told that the Prince of Wales was now the ruler of the British empire he exclaimed: "Gee! The prince must have a lot of influence with Sir Wilfrid to get a big job like that!"—London Tit-Bits.

Are Doctors Any Good?

Foolish question! Yet some people act as if a medicine could take the place of a doctor! The best medicine in the world cannot do this. Have a family doctor, consult him frequently, trust him fully. If we did not believe doctors endorsed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for coughs and colds, we would not offer it to you. Ask your doctor. No alcohol in this cough medicine. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

If we did not believe doctors endorsed Ayer's Pills for constipation, biliousness, sick-headache, we would not offer them to you. Ask your own doctor about this.

Charged With Petty Larceny

Henry Weil was arrested yesterday, on complaint of G. Gianini, for stealing a quantity of lumber. He was taken before the city recorder and bonds fixed in the sum of $200. He gave the bonds the same afternoon, with J. Dale and J. Millosovich as sureties. The lumber alleged to have been stolen was a part of the celebration platform lumber, purchased by Gianini. When the wagon came to take away the last load Wednesday morning, it was found missing. Weil was asked about it and acknowledged that he had taken some of it. He was told to take the lumber back where he found it, which he did. It is reported afterwards a quantity more lumber was discovered on his premises. The case will come up for trial next week. Weil has employed Caminetti as his attorney.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.

His Inexcusable Act.

By ANDREW E. EWING.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

Sitting on a hotel porch among the Swiss Alps in August with my Uncle George, both of us gazing up at a glacier winding its way to the valley, I noticed a sad look in his eye.

"Doesn't the view invigorate you, uncle?" I asked.

"I've been thinking, Billy," he replied.

"Of what?"

"Our contemptible natures."

I knew my uncle was a pessimist. Most old men are. I made no reply.

"When I was your age," he continued, "I gave way to a weakness—a good many weaknesses, but one especially right here in these mountains. At the time to have confessed it would have been a strain on me. Now my act seems nothing more than what might be expected from a descendant of that half brute, half savage, called prehistoric man."

"But there are redeeming traits."

"I wish I could see them in my case."

"Well, tell your story. I'm sure you have one to tell."

"I was in this region with a party of tourists. Bob Southwick, a classmate of mine in college, had come over with me, and we were doing these mountains on foot. Bob was a great climber, while I preferred to look at the mountains from a distance, as we are doing now. The party I mention joined us here. Among them was a girl of nineteen, and Bob fell in love with her. Then he called away to Paris for awhile, and during his absence I—well, I cut him out with the girl."

My uncle paused and seemed to feel again after an interval of forty years the degradation of his act.

"When George came back, as was to be expected, there was constraint between him and the girl. George seemed to be in a mental fever; but, strange to say, it showed itself toward her and not at all to me. But I found out afterward that he didn't know what I'd been up to, and I hadn't the manliness to tell him. At any rate, he was hot for climbing and wanted me to go with him. The very day after his return he wanted me to make a trip as far up the glacier as we could go between daylight and dark. I didn't wish to go, and I didn't like to refuse. To stay behind with the girl I had robbed him of seemed to add to my contemptible conduct. I consented to go."

"We started at 4 o'clock the next morning, taking axes and a rope for making difficult passages. We climbed over those places that from here look a trifle rough up there—we found them at times impassable—proceeding on our way till noon. Then we stopped and ate our lunch, after which we started to put in another hour on the upward course before returning."

"Coming to a crevasse perhaps six feet across, we determined to jump it. We fastened the rope about our waists, and Bob jumped first. The other side was steep and somewhat soft, but Bob after some stamping and cutting with his ax got a foothold. Then I jumped and struck snow. I felt myself going backward and tried to get a hold on projecting ice with my ax. I failed. Bob saw what was coming and braced himself for the shock. I went over."

Another pained look came to the old man's face.

"The rope held. Bob was dragged a few feet and then got a firmer foothold, but a precarious one. There was no possibility of his pulling me up, and if the strain continued I would soon drag him over. We talked together about the prospect, he trying to encourage me. I knew I had to go to the bottom and it depended upon me whether or not I dragged Bob with me. I'd done one mean act toward him, and I couldn't bring myself to drag him down with me, especially when it wouldn't save me. I put my hand in my pocket, took out my knife and, breathing a prayer that my soul should be received in the other world, cut the rope."

Another pause. I saw my uncle shudder.

"I heard something between a shriek and a groan from Bob. To my astonishment, I fell only about thirty feet and landed in soft snow. I was buried up to my armpits. Of course I called up to Bob that I was all right, and I shall never forget the 'Thank God!' I heard him utter."

"Well, there I was, stuck in snow at the bottom of a crevasse, with no means of getting out. The rope wasn't long enough by half to reach me. Bob of course was enabled to secure his own position, or, rather, to jump to the other side of the crevasse. He jumped safely, and we held a parley. There seemed nothing to do but for him to go down to the hotel for assistance and a rope. Fortunately some one there was watching us through a glass, saw the accident and met him on the way. In the middle of the afternoon I was drawn up."

We sat for a few moments in silence, I overwhelmed with the utter absence of consciousness on the part of my uncle of his heroism; then I said:

"What did your friend say about your cutting the rope?"

"He never thought to examine the end. He supposed the rope had broken."

"And didn't you tell him?"

"No. What was the use?"

Again I was lost in astonishment.

"And the girl?" I asked presently.

"Oh, the girl! Well, she fooled us both."

"Uncle," I said after another pause, "if you were conscious of being a hero, I suppose you wouldn't be one."

Nature as a Designer.

Not the least mysterious of all the wonders of the earth is the extraordinary cleverness of Dame Nature as a carver and designer. Her tools are air, rain, rivers, springs and frost. Any one who has ever seen the marvelous Queen Bess rock on the north Cornish coast, that wonderful presentment of Queen Elizabeth, who is seated so grandly upon the sands, must have asked himself the question as to how much a thing could have been accomplished. Continuous trickling of water wears away the face of the rock. Haphazard it was until at last a weird pattern is formed that sometimes resembles a man's face, sometimes an animal. All over the world Nature has placed her picture gallery and her collection of statuary, the biggest free show in the world.

Another work of Nature's that very often results in extraordinary changes being effected is a landslide. And landslides have arisen from the tiniest possible causes. A little underground flow of water had gradually undermined a hill or cliff until at last the earth became like a hollow nut. Then the soil became top heavy. The sea beat against its foundations, and millions of tons of earth were flung into the sea, which proves the axiom that the tiniest beginnings often produce the mightiest ends.—London Standard.

English Luggage Lifters.

English railway companies suffer severely through the pilfering of passengers' baggage and other articles by platform thieves, and in some cases it is a difficult matter to find out the miscreant. One of these luggage lifters was on an occasion some time ago seen keeping vigil over a barrow of luggage, and in his hand he carried apparently a good sized portmanteau. He walked up and down the platform several times and at last stopped opposite the luggage. Placing his bag on the barrow for a moment, he then picked it up and walked off. But the lynx eye of one of the railway officials had also been watching the barrow, and, going up to the man, had him arrested and searched. It was found that his apparent portmanteau was only a skeleton and inside had a set of springs, etc., which, when placed over a smaller bag, held the latter in position. But for the smartness of the official another traveler's bag would have been missing.—London Answers.

The Hollow Bones of Birds.

The hollow bones of birds are frequently cited as beautiful instances of providential mechanics in building the strongest and largest possible limb with the least expenditure of material, and this is largely true, and yet birds, like ducks, which cleave the air with the speed of an express train, have the long bones filled with marrow or saturated with fat, while the lumbering hornbill, that fairly hurtles over the treetops, has one of the most completely pneumatic skeletons imaginable, permeated with air to the very toe tips, and the ungainly pelican is nearly as well off. Still, it is but fair to say that the frigate bird and turkey buzzards, creatures which are most at ease when on the wing, have extremely light and hollow bones; but, comparing one bird with another, the paramount importance of a pneumatic skeleton to a bird is not as evident as that of a pneumatic tire to a bicycle.—Exchange.

An Earl's Duel With a Butler.

About the middle of the last century the Lord Rosebery of that time was in Paris, and in paying a call one day he was received so rudely by the butler that he complained to his friend of the servant's conduct. But the butler had been a noncommissioned officer in the French army, and as such he challenged Lord Rosebery to a duel. The earl accepted, and two shots were exchanged without result. But Lord Rosebery was angered at his own condensation and afraid his antagonist might lay aside his military rank and resume his duties as a servant, thus exposing an earl to the reproach of having fought with a butler. So he settled an annuity of £250 on the man on condition he did not return to domestic service. The condition was faithfully observed on both sides.

Lord Russell's Retort.

Lord Russell once presided at a dinner given for Sir Henry Irving on his return from America. While the dinner was in progress Lord Russell suggested to Comyns Carr that he propose Sir Henry's health. "I can't make speeches, you know," he said.

Sir Henry gently replied, "I heard you make a fine speech before the Parnell commission."

To which the pungent Irishman answered, "Oh, yes, but then I had something to talk about!"

Before and After.

"That couple used to be inseparable a year ago," he observed, "and now you hardly ever see them together. Why is it? Do you know?"

"Yes," said she. "They weren't married a year ago."—New York Press.

Their Present Names.

"What are the names of that young couple next door?"

"We won't be able to find out for several weeks. They've just been married, and he calls her Birdie, and she calls him Pettie."

The Touch.

"Shadbutt, did you ever have a touch of anything like the appendicitis?"

"Once. Have you forgotten, Dinguss, that when you were operated on for it you touched me for an even hundred?"

OVERTAXED

Hundreds of Jackson Readers Know What It Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed; Have too much to do. They tell about it in many aches and pains—Backache, sideache, headache, Early symptoms of kidney ills. Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease follow.

A Jackson citizen tells here the way to keep the kidneys well.

Mrs. Eva Bastian, Church St., Jackson, Cal., says: "I suffered severely from kidney trouble for a long time. My kidneys were disordered and the secretions so frequent in passage as to cause me much annoyance. The pain in my back was so severe that I could not sleep at night and if I attempted to turn over, I was in misery. I tried liniments and plasters and also used a great many remedies but did not find satisfactory relief until I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box at the City Pharmacy. I received great relief from the first and continued taking them until I was restored to good health."

Sorry He Spoke.

He was very deferential, but he was a deacon in the church, and he felt that he had a right to criticize. "I hope you'll pardon me," he said, "if I suggest that your sermons are—ah—"

"Too prosy, I suppose?" suggested the minister.

"Oh, no, not that, but too long."

"But you mustn't blame me for that," returned the minister pleasantly. "If you knew a little more I wouldn't have to tell you so much."

Shaving.

When asked whether Napoleon shaved himself Talleyrand replied: "Yes. One born to be a king has some one to shave him, but they who acquire kingdoms shave themselves." Dionysius, the tyrant of Syracuse, not daring to commit himself to a barber's hands, is said to have shaved his own beard with glowing walnut shells.

Pleasure once tasted satisfies less than the desire experienced for it torments.

AN INNOCENT VICTIM.

Swinburne and the Grouchy Head Master of Eton.

Once when Algernon Charles Swinburne was traveling back with his father from school at the end of one of the terms they entered a carriage in which the then head master of Eton, who was buried in the Times, was seated.

"Isn't that Dr. —?" the admiral whispered to his son. "I believe it is," stammered young Swinburne reluctantly. After a rebuke at the apparently careless answer the admiral "accosted the awful presence" with "Dr. —, I believe, sir?" The doctor was plainly annoyed at being disturbed by a stranger. "Well, sir," pursued the admiral, "my boy here has just finished his first term at Eton, and I should very much like to know what account you can give of him." As a matter of fact, the doctor had not set eyes on young Swinburne before. "Enraged, however, I suppose," Swinburne afterward related, "at my father's rather unconventional interruption, which he had no doubt considered a slight on his dignity, he glanced down at me with a scarlet face and said deliberately, 'Your boy, sir—your boy is one of the very worst in the school, and then intrenched himself once more behind the Times.'"

At Paddington there was a storm. In vain young Swinburne protested that the doctor had said what he had out of pure vexation, but the father declared that he would take the word of the head master, and Swinburne was deprived of all pleasures and privileges for the duration of the holiday.—Dundee Advertiser.

A Palpable Hit.

"Now, sir," demanded counsel for the defendant, "tell us what time this alleged robbery took place."

"You had better ask your client," retorted the plaintiff. "He had my watch!"

Tragic Tale of a Tragedian.

"The awfulest and the funniest stage wait I ever lived through," said a sprightly English actress, "was when a certain well known London actor manager, whose name I dare not divulge, was doing a tremendous scene on a darkened stage. He had the audience spellbound with his sonorous declamation, which, of course, they didn't know, depended largely upon his ample mouthful of false teeth. At the very climax of his blood-curdling maledictions the entire dental collection dropped out suddenly in the excitement of the moment and bounded into some obscure hiding place. The tragedian's mighty voice died down to an unintelligible mumble as he groped about frantically in search of the missing masticators. We were all too helpless from laughter to be of much help in this critical situation. At last, after what seemed like half an hour of the most hysterical suspense, the stage manager located the teeth with the aid of a dark lantern and restored them to the frantic star, who clapped them into his mouth and began cursing again with redoubled earnestness. I never knew what the audience thought, and no one ever dared to ask the actor manager."—New York World.

Quicksilver.

The ore from which quicksilver is obtained is a brilliant red rock known as cinnabar. When of high purity it is actually vermilion in color. Cinnabar is the original source of the pigment known commercially as vermilion. It is a compound of sulphur and quicksilver, and in order to separate the latter from the sulphur the rock is roasted. Passing off in the form of a gas, the mercury is afterward condensed and flows out in a fine stream, like a continuous penell of molten silver. Like gold and silver, mercury is occasionally found in a native or pure state. Sometimes the miner's pick penetrates a cavity that contains a cupful or more of the elusive and beautiful fluid. Miners suffer much from the poisonous effects of the quicksilver fumes. Extreme cleanliness is the best safeguard for workers in this dangerous occupation. Use is also made of a sort of lemonade which serves to a certain extent as an antidote, a strong acid taking the place of lemon juice in the composition of the drink.

Must Keep the Curtains Up.

"In London it is strictly against the law for the driver of any public conveyance to allow the curtains of his vehicle to be pulled down," said a man who has visited the English metropolis. "By day or night the windows of cabs, hansoms, carriages, or what not, whether drawn by horses or propelled by electric power, must be so open to public inspection as to allow a plain view of those occupying the interior. A closed rig wouldn't get a block before a London bobby would nab his driver and hale him to a magistrate's office, where he would get no mercy. The law is based on the theory that closed vehicles lend themselves easily to the commission of robbery or murder and that they may also assist a criminal to make his escape."—Baltimore American.

The Gorgons.

The Gorgons were creatures of Greek mythology, mentioned by Homer and Euripides as being of peculiarly abhorrent aspect. Their hair was composed of serpents, their bodies covered with scales and girdled with reptiles with heads erect, vibrating their tongues threateningly, while the hands of the Gorgons, adorned with sharp talons, were of brass. The gaze of the monsters was deadly, all upon whom they fixed their eyes being turned to stone. One of the three terrible sisters was conquered and beheaded by Perseus, and as he took flight in the air en route for Ethiopia, holding the severed head in his hands, the drops of blood which fell from it became serpents, which ever after infested the sands of Lybia.—New York Telegram.

Avoided the Conventional.

"It is a wonderful story," says the publisher to the new author, whose manuscript has just been accepted, "but you have failed in one important feature. You do not describe the way the heroine was dressed when the hero first met her. You'd better write in a paragraph about her clothes, but try to avoid the conventional."

The ingenious author, knowing the sameness of costume descriptions in the best sellers and also knowing how to make an appeal to the feminine heart, wrote:

"Heloise floated toward him garbed in a $600 dress, a $250 hat, with a $98.75 mantilla over a $375 lace coat."—Chicago Post.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY

Reported weekly for the Ledger.

A New Wood.—High Fever in Plants.
—A Brake to Hold.—Sewage Disposal at a Profit.—The Drying Earth.—Iron in Concrete Free from Rust.—Safe Storage of Lime.—Moonlight Loving Worms.—Bog Water Toxins.

The peat wood patented by Heibing in Germany, is claimed to be a great improvement over previous mixtures of peat and gypsum. The wet peat is washed, and is then mixed with water-slaked lime and an albuminous compound, and some times with a clayey earth containing sulphur, and the mixture is forced into molds under a pressure of about 50 pounds per square inch. After short compression, the material is taken out and dried in open air. These artificial boards are claimed to be as hard and strong as the best natural wood, they are not hygroscopic, are fungus proof, and are slow-burning. They can be worked, polished and painted like natural wood. The peat wood is recommended as adapted for a great variety of purposes, such as flooring, doors, fireproof stairs, ceilings, cabinet work, sidewalks, roof coverings, street and factory pavements, decorations, furniture, ship-building, street cars, and railroad ties.

Heat sufficient to destroy life, generated by the normal function of respiration, has been the surprising discovery of Prof. Hans Molisch, of Prague. Freshly cut leaves were insulated in wood wool and cloth, with a thermometer protruding, and in 9 hours they had become heated from 22 deg to 44 deg C. and within 15 hours to 51.5 deg C. (125 deg F.). In the next 37 hours the temperature fell to 34 deg C., then rose to 47 deg C., then fell finally. A test at 43 deg. C showed the leaves to be still alive. The first rise in temperature could be explained only as a result of respiration of the leaves, and the second rise was due to the rapid development of bacteria, which were few until after the first maximum had been passed. By inclosing one end of a tube of either in a mass of insulated leaves, the effects of a vegetable furnace were shown. The liquid boils at 345. deg. C., and in this "furnace" it was very soon boiling vigorously.

An electromagnetic brake of new type, now made in Germany for mountain and other railways, grips the rails instead of acting on the car wheels. The utilizing of the solid matter of sewage by the methods of Dr Grossman is being tested in the north of England, and is claimed to have proven hygienic, effective, and economical, the products more than paying the expense. The coarsest suspended matter being removed, the sewage is stored a few weeks in settling tanks. The clear liquid is then run off, and more water is removed by pressure from the sludge, which is then mixed with chemicals and distilled with superheated steam. The grease in the steam passing over from the retort is collected on the surface of cool water. This grease, derived from the large amount of soap that finds its way into the sewers forms about five per cent of the residuum, and is sold at about $35 per ton. The black odorless powder, rich in nitrogen, that remains in the retort amounts to 700 to 800 pounds for each ton of pressed sludge. This is in demand as a fertilizer, and is sold readily at about $1.50 per ton. A flow of three million gallons per day of raw sewage yields about 20 tons of pressed sludge, which is treated at an average net profit of 53 cents per ton.

That much of Europe will become an arid desert in a few centuries, unless steps are taken to prevent it, was the prophecy made a year ago or two by a distinguished French scientific man. It is well known in a vague way that some parts of the earth are drier than formerly, but observations are lacking to show whether this has been a merely local conditions or is a locally advanced stage of a process going on over a wide area. Herr Walsen, a German has been lately trying to get a more accurate idea of the desiccation from the records of bodies of water. He finds that hundreds of European lakes have entirely disappeared, and in the canton of Zurich alone the 149 lakes of 1690 have become reduced to 76, while about half of these have been diminished in size. German and Russian lakes also, as well as those of western Asia, give evidence of a drying up of the land. Renewed assurance of the durability of reinforced concrete is given by Rohland, a German engineer, who has found that acid carbonates and sulphates in cement, partly in the setting, dissolve the iron oxide from the iron bars, etc., leaving the metal bright. The hardened cement protects against any further rusting.

A novel plan is being tried for preventing the rapid deterioration of lime and the injury to workmen by the dust in factories and other places where large quantities are stored or kept. Even under fair shelter lime becomes air-slaked, and the new remedy consists in more securely protecting it in silos similar to those used for wheat, which are hermetically sealed and are filled from buckets opening at the bottom. There is neither dust nor exposure to the air. In a German establishment, a store-room 140 feet long and 80 wide has been supplied with thirty silos having a total capacity of 1800 tons. The buckets hold eight tons each, and they are taken to the store-room in special covered trucks having a capacity of about 30 tons each.

The palolo is a remarkable marine worm that exists in vast numbers in the Polynesian seas, where it is highly prized as food by the natives, and once each year it visits the Samoan, Figian and Gilbert archipelagos to spawn. A singular fact is that it always appears at the last quarter of the moon in October. A Japanese marine worm, Meres japonica, is said also to regulate its breeding season by the moon, and at the new or full moon of the middle or last of December it suddenly appears in immense swarms in the Kagoshima gulf and adjacent rivers, covering the water to a depth of five or six feet. In two hours it disappears. The worm is used as bait, and is so abundant that it is also collected for manure. Swamp lands have often proved unfavorable for agriculture, even when well drained and fertilized.

From the investigations into the subject in the extensive swamps of the United States, A. Dachnowski concludes that the loss of fertility is due, at least in part, to the presence in bow water of substances poisonous to plants. They seem to be produced by imperfect oxidation and decomposition of proteins and related bodies, and it is possible that in respiration bog plants may differ from others. After the land has been exposed to the air for a time, the fertility is restored by oxidation of the harmful products.

A Square Deal

Is assured you when you buy Dr. Pierce's family medicines—for all the ingredients entering into them are printed on the bottle-wrappers and their formulas are attested under oath as being complete and correct. You know just what you are paying for and that the ingredients are gathered from Nature's laboratory, being selected from the most valuable native medicinal roots found growing in our American forests and while potent to cure are perfectly harmless even to the most delicate women and children. Not a drop of alcohol enters into their composition. A much better agent is used both for extracting and preserving the medicinal principles used in them, viz., pure refined glycerine. This agent possesses intrinsic medicinal properties of its own, being a most valuable antiseptic and antiferment, nutritive and soothing demulcent.

Glycerine plays an important part in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, heart-burn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Besides curing all the above distressing ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its ulcerative stages it will yield to this sovereign remedy if its use be persevered in. In Chronic Catarrh of the Nasal passages, it is well, while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary constitutional treatment, to cleanse the passages freely two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures the worst cases.

In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption in its advanced stages, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hanging coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The "Discovery" is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate, chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken.

Constipation causes headache, nausea, dizziness, languor, heart palpitation. Drastic physics gripe, sicken, weaken the bowels and don't cure. Don's Regulators act gently and cure constipation. 25 cents. Ask your druggist.

A Caroline Islands Legend.

The Caroline Islands group includes, besides coral islands, five mountainous islands of basaltic formation, beautiful and fertile with rivers and springs. Among the many queer legends of these children of the Pacific there is none more highly improbable than their theory as to the origin of these islands and their inhabitants. They think they themselves were very strong in the water—in fact, they lived in it. The story goes that a woman and her children were floating around on the reef when a man appeared from the west with a basket of soil on his shoulders. He had started out to make an island with a mountain on it. One of the children cried out to him, "Give us a little soil to make a place for our mother to rest, for she is very weak and cannot swim." He took out a handful of the earth and threw it down, making an island. As the man was going on his way over the water the son slyly made a hole in the basket, so as he proceeded on his way he left a trail of land behind. Suddenly he became conscious that the basket seemed light, and, looking around, he saw the land. In his anger he turned about and trod upon it, and thus the islands were formed.

An Apt Answer.

The dangers associated with the fishing industry on the Newfoundland banks are many and grave. Foremost among them is that the dories may be upset while fishing, which involves almost inevitable loss of their occupants. Callous captains, secure themselves from the necessity of going, frequently order their men out when the weather does not warrant it, and disastrous are the results. One of these brutal skippers was aptly answered once by a bank man of whose courage or capacity there was no question.

"Out with you!" shouted the captain. "Hurry up there! It's a fishing day!"

"Oh, no, skipper!" replied the dory man. "It's too stormy today for a boat to fish."

"Nonsense, man!" rejoined the skipper. "If my old grandmother was here today she'd get her dory out."

"Then, skipper," said the man, "if her grandson will come out with me now I'll haul my trawl."

It is needless to say no dories were launched from that schooner on that date.—Philadelphia Schoner.

Barrie and Kipling.

Mr. Barrie was one day at Waterloo station in a hurry to catch a train. He was hastening from the bookstall laden with papers, "a good many sixpenny ones among them," he dolefully relates, when, in rushing around a corner, he fell into the arms of Rudyard Kipling, equally in a tearing hurry. They turned on each other with scowling faces, then smiled in recognition and asked each other whether he went. Then Kipling, exclaiming, "Lucky beggar, you've got papers!" seized the bundle from Barrie, flung him some money and made off. "But you did not stoop to pick up his dirty halfpence, did you?" queried one of Mr. Barrie's hearers amusedly. "Didn't I, though?" returned Barrie, and added ruefully, "But he hadn't flung me half enough."—St. James' Gazette.

Rose Colds From Paper Roses.

"A patient of mine is subject to rose colds," a doctor said. "She caught a bad rose cold last week from a bouquet of artificial roses. That often happens. It is supposed to show the mystic, psychological aspect of disease, but as a matter of fact it is just as natural to take a rose cold from paper roses as from the real kind. Why? Because the paper roses that bring on rose colds are always perfumed. It is the fad, you know, to perfume artificial flowers. The scent used is the essential oil of roses, and it is this oil in the natural flowers that causes rose colds."—New York Press.

A Keen Observer.

Ethel, aged three, had been to visit her cousins, two fun loving and romping boys. She had climbed upon her father's knee and was telling him of her visit. "Papa, every night John and George say their prayers they ask God to make them good boys," said she.

"That is nice," said papa. Then, thinking soberly for a few minutes, she said, "He ain't done it yet."—Delineator.

Nocturnal Tragedy.

It is a dark night. It is also a dark kitchen. The kind hearted man in his stocking feet is after a drink of water for his fretful youngster. He thinks he can find his way in the inky darkness. He is mistaken. He turns to the left instead of to the right and falls down cellar.

Another good man gone wrong.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Nice Wedding Present.

A reproduction of a picture called "The Coming Storm" was advertised for sale in a Berlin shop window, and under the title there were the words in large type, "Suitable for a wedding present."

Thinking Oneself Old.

If at thirty you expect to be an old man or woman at fifty-five you will be one, because the mind makes the material correspondence of whatever it sets itself permanently upon.—Health Record.

Columbus' Oversight.

That was a wise schoolboy who when the master asked, "Why was it that his great discovery was not properly appreciated?" promptly replied, "It was because he didn't advertise, sir."

Venetian Coffee Houses.

The first cup of coffee was drunk in Europe at Venice toward the end of the sixteenth century. The Venetian chronicler Morosini in his records of the events in the year 1585 mentions the beverage called "cavee" drunk by the Turks and noted for its anti-soporific qualities. In the year 1591 a Venetian doctor introduced the berries from Egypt, taught his countrymen how to crush them and brew the beverage, and the use of coffee soon became general—so much so, in fact, that Venice was full of coffee houses where the people idled away their days drinking the aromatic beverage. A peculiarity of the Venetian coffee houses was that their patrons did not pay for each cup of coffee they drank, but settled their bills for all the coffee consumed at the end of each year. The regular price of a cup of coffee was 5 soldi, about 2½ cents, and in some of the old cafes of Venice today the same price is still charged.—New York Sun.

Awkward Compliment.

There is such a thing as being too persistently complimentary. A candid and well meaning professor who had witnessed the performance of a little play in a private house in which his hostess had taken the leading part met the lady as she came from behind the curtain.

"Madam," he said, rushing up to her, "you played excellently. That part fits you to perfection."

"Oh, no, professor," said the lady modestly. "A young and pretty woman is needed for that part."

"But, madam," persisted the professor, "you have positively proved the contrary!"—Pearson's Weekly.

Blamed the Planets.

In the middle of the fourteenth century in Paris a new ordinance enjoining the cleansing of the streets and the shutting up of swine was carefully neglected, as usual, and a terrible plague was the consequence. The faculty of medicine, called upon for a remedy by the king, sent to inform him after long discussion that the plague was the result of a hostile conjunction of the planets Mars and Jupiter.

The Cause of Drafts.

Why is it that windows and doors are frequently ill fitting? There is nothing wrong with the wood itself, nor with the workmanship, as a rule, nor with the fit, at the outset at least, but the whole trouble is due to the wood being unseasoned, or, rather, only partially seasoned, at the time it is made up.—Timber.

Optimistic.

"Is Jones an optimist?" "Is he? He found a ticket entitling him to a chance in an automobile drawing the other day, and he is building a garage."—Boston Transcript
